Main Points Of Proposed Law

New labor legislation introduced in the House Tuesday contains the following main points:

- All trade unions and employer organizations become legal entities, subject to suit for damages.
- All picketing, except by employees of a firm which is legally involved in a strike or lockout, becomes illegal.
- Unions or employer groups become liable for actions of members or agents, unless proven otherwise.
- New emphasis is placed on a four-day limit on ex parte injunctions.

Separate German Pact Red Threat

By The Associated Press

Hopeful Western words ran up against a reiteration of the Soviet stand on German issues in coincidental pronouncements by Big Three government chiefs today.

Premier Khrushchev declared in Leipzig that the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the West fails to come to terms on an all-German settlement. He demanded again that U.S., British and French troops clear out of West Berlin, insisted the Russians will turn over controls to the East Germans and said Western statesmen's efforts to block it "will come to nothing."

FORM OF DISENGAGEMENT

In London, Prime Minister Macmillan said he will consult with his allies on a form of disengagement in central Europe. Disengagement ordinarily is taken in diplomatic circles to mean a pullback of Eastern and Western forces, to leave an area either neutralized or only lightly armed.

Macmillan, who returned home Tuesday from a 10-day mission to Moscow, told the House of Commons that he and Khrushchev "had a useful" and I think constructive discussion in private on this matter."

In Washington, President Eisenhower told a press conference that any arrangement for withdrawal of Western military forces from Europe would have to be within a self-enforcing general agreement with the Soviet Union.

RUSSIA LESS RIGID?

He said Russia's latest note on Germany indicated lessening of rigidity of the Soviet position and the U.S. government is taking as optimistic a view as possible.

The Soviet note, delivered to the Western powers Tuesday, agreed to their proposal for a foreign ministers' conference in Vienna or Geneva. The Russians suggested it start in April with just two topics—Berlin and a German peace treaty. The Russians made clear they would prefer a summit conference to consider all cold war problems.

Two Western statesmen intimately concerned—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French President de Gaulle—conferred at de Gaulle's villa west of Paris. It was their third meeting since de Gaulle returned to power.

War Means World Annihilation

By ELIZABETH FORBES
Times Women's Editor

VANCOUVER—A woman who has worked tirelessly for over 40 years to improve conditions in international understanding said this morning that there is no such thing as preventive war.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, at a press conference here, expressed regret over a recent report that inferred the United States might bomb Russia in order to offset a world war.

"There is no such thing as preventive warfare," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "The next war, no matter how started or for what purpose, will be one of complete annihilation."

Facing a battery of cameras and the questions of reporters with dignified ease, Mrs. Roosevelt made it clear that while the Soviet government is "not entirely to be trusted," she believed that Russia is confident it can win through to world communism "without resorting to war."

This does not mean that if the western world shows weakness that Khrushchev might not launch a war. "You must remember, however, that Khrushchev knows that to win he must not only beat the United States, but all the countries of the free world. He too knows it means world annihilation."

Mrs. Roosevelt believes that any show of weakness on the part of the Western world at present would be detrimental. "We do not want a compromise brought about by intimidation. We must be more mature."

She added: "There is no such thing as preventive warfare."

"O God, although we cannot see Thee with our eyes or touch Thee with our hands, we may sense Thy presence in ways more real than sight could disclose or touch convince. Thy Spirit is within our hearts. So when we cry to Thee for sudden help, it is not from a distance that Thou must come to our succor; and when we yearn for understanding it is not in vain that we wait. Lord, we give thanks that we are not alone, for Thou art with us; and strength, and joy, and hope are with thee; in Christ's name. Amen."

The attorney-general's salary of $12,500 be reduced by $12,499.

Mr. Gregory proposed to distribute copies of the statutory declaration filed by lawyer David Sturdy at the outset of the case.

"The House should be put in the position of judging for themselves whether there was fire as well as smoke in this declaration," he said.

Mr. Bonner stated that, while the declaration might be of historic interest, it could only serve to embarrass companies named in the declaration which had since been found to have had no relation to the matter.

"This would be an invasion of privacy," Mr. Bonner added.

Criminal Proceedings Justified

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) said there was nothing to prevent a member sending copies of a document separately to each member of the House in an envelope.

Mr. Richter (chairman): "I have no jurisdiction over that."

Mr. Gregory insisted it was "absurd" for Mr. Bonner to say that the statutory declaration made by Mr. Sturdy could still be regarded with "scepticism."

The criminal proceedings which started 23 months after the matter was first drawn to the attention of the attorney-general, have been clearly justified by the verdict in this case."

(Sommers was sentenced to five years imprisonment but has since appealed the sentence.)

Mr. Gregory said the passage of time had undoubtedly improved the crown's position in prosecution. If the Court of Appeal allowed the appeal, it would certainly indicate a vote of non-confidence in the attorney-general.

"Can a man in that position say, as the attorney-general infers, 'I do not have to disclose my personal affairs in this case'?"

"Who would defend his right to say you cannot search my bank records because no charge has been laid?"

Mr. Gregory said Mr. Bonner had relied on the constitutional rights of the country to refuse to disclose information he had secured on a matter of public importance.

"What kind of integrity does he demand of his cabinet colleagues?" From Dec. 7, 1958, until the minister (Sommers) resigned on Feb. 7, 1958, the

"It doesn't much matter to me—but I am interested in the principle involved."

The government members then voted against distribution of the document in face of CCF and Liberal Opposition.

"You ought to hang your heads," exclaimed Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), addressing the government benches. "You want to hide the statutory declaration which caused all the trouble."

"Is this a public document?" asked CCF leader Robert Strachan.

Mr. Bonner: "It is available in a public court, it is available for inspection."

Mr. Strachan said material had been distributed in the House many times without reference to members.

Unions Can Be Sued Under Proposed Law

By PETE LOUDON
Labor Minister Lyle Wicks

Tuesday introduced new labor legislation to establish trade unions and employer organizations as legal entities liable to civil suit for damages through strike or lockout.

The legislation, known as Bill 43, immediately shaped up as the most controversial question to come before the House in the current session.

It limits picketing to employees actually on strike who are picketing their own place of work. It prohibits listing of firms considered unfair to organized labor, outlaws sympathy picket lines, or declaring goods "hot" on a general basis.

Only the employees actually involved in a strike or their authorized agents may attempt to persuade anyone from entering the premises of a strike-bound or locked-out firm, deal in or handle the employer's product, or do business with the employer.

Explanatory notes by the labor department cite three disputes, two of them in Victoria area, in which the principle of collecting damages from employer or union organizations, has been recognized by the courts.

The local disputes involved George Wheaton Ltd. and the in a dispute, to halt a strike or lockout, may only be granted on grounds of safeguarding public order or preventing "substantial or irreparable injury to property."

FOUR DAYS

It adds: "An injunction granted ex parte . . . shall not be for a period longer than four days."

The labor minister indicated that more legislation will follow.

Expected is a bill to establish a labor advisory council. And linked with this, it is anticipated the minister may ask the right for the council, or for the cabinet, to arbitrarily settle any labor dispute which infringes on public convenience.

The bill would replace the Trade Unions Act, passed in 1948.

A Continent Emerges

NEW YORK—The UN General Assembly is holding one of the most colorful sessions in its history, a session which has sprinkled the corridors and lounges with delegates wearing brightly colored African hats, some with flowing tribal robes, some with impeccably cut western clothes contrasting strangely with traditional tribal markings cut into the flesh of their faces.

These delegates are here to consider independence for two West African Territories, the British and French Cameroons. These are UN Trust Territories administered by the two European powers and now coming to independence. This is the first time that African affairs have been the major subject of General Assembly discussion.

In one sense this is a relatively small issue—only four and a half million people are involved. There is apparently no serious issue since the two administering powers have expressed their wish to withdraw and a visiting UN Mission has said that the territories are ready for it.

The real reason for the great importance of this development is that it focuses attention on Africa as a whole. It symbolizes the emergence of an entire new continent which, like the men with tribal markings and Saville Row suits, is attempting to vault the centuries in one mighty leap.

Can it be done? After all, there has been virtually no African civilization south of the Sahara until very recent years. It is asking too much to expect these people to step from tribalism to internationalism, to take their places in the United Nations dealing with some of the most complex questions man has ever faced?

It's much too soon to even guess how they'll meet their responsibilities but African delegates themselves say that no one is more aware of the challenge and the difficulties than they are.

They know the world is watching them. There is no doubt that events will be troubled and exciting. Personal rivalries are intense and the experts tell me that African politics are frequently as vicious as jungle warfare. However, they see some signs that the Africans will measure up.

Most African leaders, for example, are considered to be moderates. Communism, which might be expected to make many converts with its over-simplified emotional appeal, does not appear to have much progress so far.

Leaders like Nkrumah and Guinea's Toure, who at least flirted with Communism when they were fighting for independence, have shown moderation since they took over. Some people are hopeful, in fact, that these African nations, having achieved independence under the United Nations umbrella, in the era of internationalism, will be in some respects better world citizens than many of the older nations.

But what must also be considered is the maturity and responsibility of the white men, both in Africa and those with responsibility there.

I spoke the other day to Ambassador Osman of Sudan who said there is grave danger of widespread violence in Africa within 10 years, perhaps much less, unless swift action is taken to give independence to the remaining areas of Africa. Recent riots in the Belgian Congo in the Congo Republic part of the French community and Britain's Nyasaland are just the beginning, he said.

Even greater danger lies in East Africa, in the highlands from Kenya, the land of the Mau Mau where there are rumblings again, down to the powderkeg of South Africa. Already African extremists are saying the only solution is to drive the white man into the sea. Can the white men move quickly enough to avoid a frightful clash?

This is the background against which discussions are taking place in the UN General Assembly. The discussions are relatively technical. Should there be new elections in the French Cameroons? Should there be plebiscites in the British Cameroons to find out if the people want to join the other French territory? Or should the Northern section join Nigeria which is also coming to independence? And so on. Behind it lies one of the fastest moving and most exciting developments in all history.

Can it be done? After all, there has been virtually no African civilization south of the Sahara until very recent years. It is asking too much to expect these people to step from tribalism to internationalism, to take their places in the United Nations dealing with some of the most complex questions man has ever faced?

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Smoking and Lung Cancer

LONDON—They're certainly delving into every possible angle of this link between smoking and lung cancer. Now two medical men, writing in the British Medical Journal, say that "your likelihood of getting the disease could be connected with how far down you smoke your cigarettes. They point out that the smaller the butt you leave the more tar is drawn into the lungs.

Apart from the medical aspect, an interesting thing their exhaustive research into cigarette butts has brought forth is this fact. British smokers throw away much less of the cigarette (only three-quarters of an inch) than Americans, who average an inch-and-a-quarter stub.

Nobody has ever come up with an explanation of why the British go for straight Virginia tobacco while the American preference is for blends. But this difference of the butts is easily explained. I'm sure Americans would try to smoke all their money's worth if they had to pay what the British pay per packet of 20 now—55 cents.

New name suddenly in the headlines—Sheila Delaney. She's hailed as Britain's Francoise Sagan, all on account of her play, A Taste of Honey, which has opened to rave notices.

Twenty now, she wrote it when she was 18 and it gives a graphic picture of how seamy life can be in her home town of Salford, just outside Manchester.

She has done the same sort of job on that dreary locality as John Braine did on Bradford in Room at the Top. And I like the quote of her brother Joe, down in town for the first-night celebrations.

Said he: "Don't get the idea that life in Salford is like that all the time. It's just like that most of the time."

Figures just released show that this country's easing of divorce laws has resulted in the rate of divorce now rising to one in every 14 marriages. Strange fact, apropos of this: marriage annulments in the Roman Catholic Church are granted on a greater variety of grounds than are accepted for divorce in British courts.

That Man Jimmy Hoffa...

This is the last of a series of articles by famed reporter on the life and career of James A. Hoffa, America's toughest union leader.

By JIM BISHOP

(Copyright 1959, by King Features Syndicate)

It was Saturday night. A crust of rusty snow lay along the edge of Trumbull St., Detroit. An impala was parked in front of the little gabled house. Hoffa was home. He doesn't make it often. The boss of the teamsters lives in planes.

He invited me to have dinner there. This required some thinking on his part because he keeps his family in a little secret corner of his life. James R. Hoffa is a first-rate family man. He loves them all—Jo, his lovely blonde wife, who appears to be so very young and so quiet; Jim, Jr., who is all-state high school guard in the State of Michigan and who is going to be bigger than daddy in lots of ways; Barbara Ann, 20, who is away at college and is a straight "A" student and president of her class; and Viola, who is Jimmy Hoffa's mother and still "my boss."

There is nothing fearsome about Hoffa at home. He sits in the living room with one leg tucked under. Sometimes he watches television—westerns are his favorites; sometimes he talks hunting and fishing and school with Jim, Jr. Over and over, he reminds the boy he idolizes that this is the age of education: "a guy can't break out of school like I did. Today they want you to have a Bachelor of Science degree just to deliver groceries."

Modest Home

There is no evidence of wealth, or even plush comfort, around the Hoffa home. Dave Beck sold his house for $163,000. Hoffa bought his for $6,800. Mrs. Beck has servants. Mrs. Hoffa does her own cooking and cleaning. As her husband and I talked, I watched her do her own dishes.

Most of the get-rich quick schemes uncovered by the Senate are the result of Hoffa's feelings of financial insecurity.

He got this from watching

Béilles and Zippy Snyder—are no longer in the teamsters "in any capacity". Most of these are the ones whom Hoffa called in with reluctance, and said: "I don't like this, but you're going to have to take a walk." They walked.

Seven men—including William Buffalino and Frank Fitzsimmons—are teamsters who have been arrested "but never convicted". They are all working at teamster jobs.

27 Convicted

Twenty-seven men—including Barney Baker, Albert Newman, William Hoffa (Jimmy's older brother), Raymond Cohen and Roland McMasters—are teamsters who "were convicted of misdemeanors or felonies before employment by the Teamsters" and are still in good standing in the union.

Fourteen men—and this list includes Hoffa's partner, Bert Brennan, and John McNamara, Frank Matula, and W. A. Smith—are men who have "convictions while officers and are still officials of the union." A literal translation of this could be: "No matter what you say, I will not fire these fourteen."

Mr. Hoffa does not regard the use of a right cross as a crime. In police circles, it is called assault and battery and is listed as a crime; in Teamster circles it is called friendly correction. Once, in Winston-Salem, Hoffa and Tom Flynn, head of the eastern conference, spent all of a hot summer trying to win a contract for southern truck drivers.

It was the toughest, meanest fight he ever had. When the contract was signed, Hoffa had forced wages up from a low of 90 cents an hour to $2.47. He called a meeting of the drivers one night and wistfully announced the triumph. The men cheered.

As Hoffa and Flynn led a group of 40 drivers who had missed the meeting were approaching. One of them said:

"So you're the little Yankee who sold us out to the bosses." Hoffa was smashed to the ground. So was Flynn. They had the wrong kind of courage; they kept getting up.

For a job well done, Hoffa and Flynn had bloody noses, eyes in four cinemascopic colors, and aching bones. Also, Hoffa was arrested for disturbing the peace.

Rival Pensioned

The new Teamster boss got rid of some opposition within the union when he assumed the provisional presidency.

Dan Murphy was an international vice-president. He was not pro-Hoffa. He is out, now gets a pension of about $75 a week.

One of Beck's friends is Frank Brewster. He used to be a vice-president. Hoffa forced him out, and Brewster retains his other job as president of the Seattle joint council. Thomas L. Hickey of New York was the "honest" opposition to Hoffa. He is no longer a V.P. He remains as president of Local 807, with 11,000 members.

William A. Lee of Chicago also ran for president against Hoffa. He was beaten. The man who beat him appointed Lee organizer—again to protect pension rights.

Hoffa may be slow cleaning up his Teamster household, but, conversely, he is fast in expanding his union and its power. About 35,000 new men have joined the Teamsters since Hoffa's election. He lays down policy on every negotiation where trouble can be expected; he flies from coast to coast weekly, stopping in to help at joint councils, or to resolve internal disputes. He is the boss, the sole boss, and he feels responsible to no one except the executive board.

Suspension Hurts
He likes to pretend that the suspension of the Teamsters from the AFL-CIO has not hurt. However, his assistant, Harold Gibbons, lives with Hoffa at the Woodner Hotel and mirrors the mind of the boss:

"It means that we are out of the main stream of the labor movement," says Gibbons. "It broke up our mutual assistance pacts with the meat cutters, machinists, carpenters and so forth. It also gives anti-labor officials and police a chance to harass a union which is not in good odor with its own people."

"We will continue to lend assistance to other unions—friendly or unfriendly. Sooner or later, the AFL-CIO must invite us back."

The teamsters are now the most powerful independent union in the world. They have 1,632,000 members who pay an average of $5 a month in dues. Their employers spend about $10 a month on an insurance policy which pays $2,700 for natural death, double for accidental death, all hospitalization and $200 a week for 13 weeks.

The dues money is broken up as follows: $2.80 for the local union; 20 cents for the joint council, which is a group of several locals in one area; the area conference, which is one big section of the country, gets 50 cents; $1.10 goes into a war chest to support strikes or to assist other trades councils; 40 cents goes to international headquarters.

Seventeen men on the list—including Dioguardi, Angelo Meli, Kaminsky and Paul Dorfman—are not now and never were members of the teamsters, says Hoffa. True, but some were close associates of Hoffa, and the union boss is going to find it difficult to prove that he has disassociated himself from these men.

Nine men—including Lou Shoulders, Jr., Carl Cotez and Basil Webb—are members of the union, but are not officers of, or employees of, the teamsters.

Thirty-five men—including Herman Kierdorf, Gerald Connolly, Eugene James, Ernie

Special Times Feature

These are average breakdowns of funds. Not all local unions use the money in exactly the same proportion. The 40 cents per month per man tax for the international is always the same. Under this structure, John R. English now takes in about $652,800 a month, and this comes to $7,833,600 a year.

Mr. English told me that the teamsters now have about $40,000,000 in their treasury. Most of it is invested in government bonds, a few conservative stocks. This makes the teamsters richer and more powerful than any trucker with whom they negotiate.

William A. Lee of Chicago also ran for president against Hoffa. He was beaten. The man who beat him appointed Lee organizer—again to protect pension rights.

If the future holds any terror for America, I would suggest that it lies in Jimmy Hoffa's dream of a conference on transportation unity. He hopes, someday soon, to set up a labor clearing house of all air, land and sea transportation under one roof—his.

Labor Trust

Even in sensible hands, this represents a danger to the country because it amounts to a collusive labor trust which, at a nod, can stop every bus, truck, plane and boat in America. In reckless hands, it could be a menace to national security.

Jimmy Hoffa is shrewd. He is all teamster all the time and he acknowledges no restrictions on the future power of his union. However, sometimes he slips up on minuscule matters, like the time a monk walked into his office.

The priest wore a beard, a brown habit, and sandals. He wanted tools for a school for Indian boys in Lame Deer, Montana. Hoffa, who has a strong charitable streak for the

A plea for more liquor stores in rural areas was voiced in the legislature Tuesday night by Cyril Shelford (SC, Omineca).

"It is a shame," he said, "that people have to drive 80 or 100 miles to a liquor store."

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE WORMS

I OUT OF 3 DOES!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms. Medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and nothing is known.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have shown that Jayne's Liquid Vermifuge kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the body in a natural manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fight.

For mealtimes, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

At the first sign of worms, be sure to see your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

Taught at Early Age To Give Best Effort

This is Canadian Education Week. In Greater Victoria, 20,058 children are served by our school system. To help parents understand the system, The Times is publishing a daily series throughout the week compiled by members of the profession. This article deals with one aspect of the broad subject.

Elementary education is commonly understood to cover what an average child can learn during the first six years of his school life.

During these years, the pupil is taught more than the academic elements of the curriculum. He is given basic training in those qualities of citizenship which will enable him in later life to meet the challenge of modern day living.

Today, the world has great need for the conscientious worker and objective thinker, particularly one who understands the good way of life, and is prepared to use his abilities for the benefit of others.

We cannot expect our pupils to commence school understanding the challenge which lies ahead of them. We cannot expect these young people to prepare themselves without help. Intensive training by the home, school, church, and community is required.

'Outside World'

We hope that the graduates of the schools will be ready to meet the competition of what is commonly called "the outside world."

We hope they will have learned the meaning of co-operation and have acquired an understanding of their responsibilities toward our democratic way of life. So we must begin at an early age to train the child to do his very best in all his endeavors.

The beginning child responds best to kindly understanding on the part of the teacher. With constant encouragement he learns to do his best in his written work, to acquire the rudiments of our language in speaking, writing, and reading, and to understand the fundamental operations of arithmetic.

Only Step Ahead

As he progresses through his school life, he finds that what he has learned before is only a step towards what he must learn in the future.

The pupil soon learns that he has certain capabilities which he compares with those of his classmates. He and his parents may be inclined to believe that if he can lead in his own classroom he is doing praiseworthy work. This may of may not be true.

Actually, he may be blessed with greater natural ability than many of his classmates, and therefore may be classing himself as a leader without putting forth any great effort.

Teacher Judges

The teacher, through her experience with children, is able to judge whether or not

Acquittal 'Great Error'

HAVANA (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro Tuesday denounced a Santiago tribunal's acquittal of 45 airmen of mass murder charges as "a great error" and a service to former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Prosecutor Lieut. Antonio Cejas already has appealed the verdict and the airmen are in jail pending a new trial to be held in a few days before another tribunal.

Castro said in a statement published in Revolution, organ of the revolutionary government, that the prosecution has as much right of appeal as the defense "if the sentence is not just."

The protest abated after announcement of the prosecution's appeal.

The court had held the charges not proved. The air-

Attack 'Unwarranted' UBC Chancellor Says

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chancellor A. E. (Day) Grauer, of the University of British Columbia, said Tuesday allegations made against him in the Legislature Monday were "unwarranted and unsupported".

Mr. Grauer, also president of the B.C. Electric Company, declined further comment on remarks made by Gordon Dowling, CCF member for Burnaby, who said Mr. Grauer is one of the government's greatest supporters.

'Kickbacks' Held Still Possible

The "kickback" practice as evidenced in a recent case, among eye specialists and prescription optical dealers, is still possible, Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said in the legislature Tuesday.

He showed an envelope in which a Vancouver eye specialist enclosed prescriptions for glasses. It carried instructions to the patient to take it to a certain dealer.

"The patient doesn't know he can take it anywhere he likes."

Mr. Turner noted this is legal but "still a dangerous practice." He commended it to the attorney-general for attention.

Mr. Dowling said politics had played a part in appointments to the UBC board of governors and suggested this was one reason the board had not voiced strong protests against the government's treatment of the university.

Butlers, Victoria Bs Capture Island Titles

Junior and senior "B" women's Vancouver Island basketball champions were crowned Tuesday night at Oak Bay High School gym.

Brentwood Butlers lost the final game of their two-game, total-point junior series 34-32, but won the series and the crown from Victoria College in handy fashion 79-43.

Victoria B's defeated Nanaimo for the second straight time, winning 39-24 for an 85-47 victory in the senior final.

Lorraine Code paced the B's with 13 points, while Gloria Sjoberg led Nanaimo with 15.

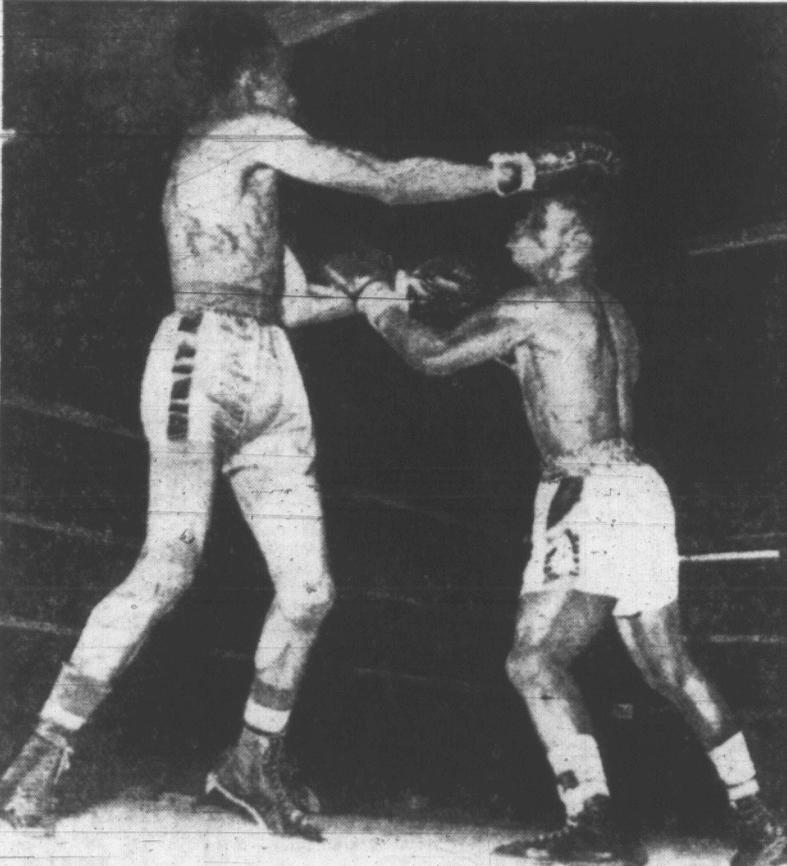

Brentwood will now meet the Vancouver champions for the B.C. crown in a series to be played at Brentwood Community Hall March 13 and 14. The B's will travel to Kelowna March 20 and 21 for the annual double-knockout provincial round-robin championship.

The Victoria City Kennel Club's all-breed championships, the first big show of the year for dog fanciers on the Pacific coast, will be held at the Crystal Garden March 13-14.

Entries to the annual winter show are expected from Seattle, Vancouver, Portland, California and Prairie points, in addition to Victoria.

Just Wait, Says Herb, And They'll All Topple

QUEBEC (CP)—The skip of a humbled western rink predicted Tuesday night that two other western teams—defeated after four rounds of the Canadian curling championship—aren't going to stay that way throughout the remaining seven rounds.

"Nobody is going through this thing undefeated," said Herb Olson, whose Alberta rink was drubbed 13-4 by Saskatchewan Tuesday in the fourth round. The margin of Saskatchewan's win was a surprise—the teams' started the round evenly rated.

Saskatchewan's four Richardsons of Regina have remained undefeated with a speedy running game that has attracted the attention of the other 10 teams. They've won four times and have been the first team off the ice of the Quebec Coliseum each time.

The other undefeated rink—British Columbia—provided another eye-opener by downing the strong Manitoba team 12-7. Skip Barry Nairn's underdog Vancouver rink mixed take-out and draw effectively go past Dr. Dick Bird's Winnipeg Elmwood Club with a 3-0 won-lost record. B.C. had a second-round bye.

But Saskatchewan's two brothers and two cousins Richardson appear the team to beat at the moment. The enthusiastic crowd was treated to plenty of excitement in the fast-moving game.

Except for a brief lull early in the final period, it was a

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

Cha Cha to That, Minnie, My Boy!

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Minnie Minoso will be fined $100 for each day he does not report to Cleveland Indians' training camp.

This was announced by general manager Frank Lane when he arrived here Tuesday and found the star leftfielder was the only unauthorized absentee.

Minoso, already six days late, is home in Havana. Minoso is the Tribe's highest paid player at a reported salary of $45,000.

Roy Sievers set another salary record for Washington Senators Tuesday signing his 1959 contract for a reported $35,000. That's about $2,000 more than Sievers received last year.

The 32-year-old slugger, in his five seasons with the Senators, has averaged 32 home runs and 101 runs batted in.

Connie Johnson, one of the "musts" for Baltimore Orioles this year, is working his troublesome right arm into shape on a careful time-table.

The big pitcher was a reliable 14-11 performer in 1957, with a 3.2 earned run average. But annoying aches and pains in the arm plagued him most of last season and he wound up with a 6-9 record.

Johnson—and the Orioles—are taking no chances this time, and he's taking things very slowly.

Newcomer Bob Hale is getting approving glances from Baltimore manager Paul Richards as the guy nobody seems able to get out. He hit .350 with Vancouver last season and could be as handy as a pinch-hitter and part-time first

"I'm not giving up on him and he isn't being traded," Stengel said.

Norm Sievers, a .300 hitter as a leftfielder for New York Yankees last year, began working out at first base Tuesday. Manager Casey Stengel ordered the move because of Sievers' fielding failures in the World Series.

The undefeated rinks don't meet until Thursday's ninth round.

British Columbia—a team formed just a few weeks ago for the practice—skipped past Manitoba in neat style, taking advantages of misses by Dr. Bird's rink. The Vancouver crew led 4-1 at the end of three rounds and were never headed.

THEN BACK TO SKID ROAD

'A Fix' for Girls Just Out of Jail

Young girls on leaving Oakalla Prison are often picked up in a taxi and taken back to "skid row," Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Tuesday night.

"People who sell drugs seem to know when they are getting out of jail," Mr. Harding said. "They go out and meet them in taxis and give them a fix."

He appealed for closer supervision so that "young people have a fighting chance of rehabilitation when they have served their term."

Mr. Harding was speaking during debate on estimates for the Attorney-General's Department.

New Way To Get Quick Relief From Sore, Painful Piles

Relieve Itching, Swelling and Pain without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to get quick relief from painful piles without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories. The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid tablet each day. It's effective INTERNAL action. By effective INTERNAL action this mild but gently persistent medicine eases constipation, relieves itching, removes pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. Hem-Roid is so easy to use, so pleasant and satisfying

'CRASH PROGRAM'

Separate Authority Asked on Narcotics

Establishment of a narcotics authority, separate from the police, with funds to launch a program of narcotics control, was urged in the Legislature Tuesday by Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard).

"The present program of narcotic control has failed," he stated. "Action by the federal police has been somewhat spasmodic. The harm, and the number of people affected, has been continually increasing. We need a continuous crash program . . ."

The Royal Canadian Navy's first naval air station, HMCS Shearwater in Nova Scotia, was commissioned in 1948.

ASKS END TO DEATH PENALTY

'It's Barbaric' Says Gargrave

Abolition of the death penalty was advocated in the B.C. legislature Tuesday by Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie).

He asked the attorney-general to urge the federal government to eliminate "this final and irrevocable, barbaric punishment."

He recalled a resolution was passed by the legislature in 1935 opposing capital punishment, and he asked if it was forwarded to Ottawa and what was the reaction?

Mr. Bonner said the resolution had been sent to Ottawa but there was no reply, perhaps because it was a federal matter.

Mr. Gargrave suggested that hanging was a degrading procedure for all concerned.

"It involves the degrading spectacle of a doctor having to climb up a ladder to put his stethoscope to the heart of a man hanging from a rope."

Mr. Bonner said, a "new policy" regarding the death penalty is under consideration in Ottawa."

FAST SERVICE CPA GOAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines says it will have at least 600 seats available weekly for eastbound Vancouver passengers when it begins its cross-Canada service in competition with Trans-Canada Air Lines May 4. TCA has 3,000 seats weekly.

CPA said its turbo-prop Bristol Britannia aircraft will be able to stop at Winnipeg and still make better time to Toronto than TCA's direct Vancouver-Toronto flights.

STEAMBOAT ON TH' RIVER—STEAMIN' NO MORE

Sternwheeler Visits Here

By HAL MALONE

The nostalgic flavor of the Mississippi steamboat era will waft over Victoria, March 30, when one of the costliest, most luxuriant stern-wheelers ever built, the Delta King, pauses en route to her final resting place.

Gone are the days when the

MONTE ROBERTS

A true-blue native Victorian did me a great kindness the other day.

I should explain, a true-blue native Victorian is different from a plain native Victorian, such as me. I was born here, which makes me a native, but I went away for many years. The true-blue native Victorian has enough sense to stay here all his life, with the possible exception of a brief expedition to Duncan.)

But about this kindness performed by the true-blue native Victorian. He took me for a drive, and he showed me a few of the scenic highlights of this, the fairest city of them all.

Now, I have been over the ground we covered many scores of times in the past few years. But, with the true-blue native Victorian doing the driving as well as the explaining, I began to see the city somewhat as a tourist might see it.

The route chosen for our drive was a very ordinary one, taken for granted by all residents; we went out Hillside until it became Lansdowne, and wended our way through the Uplands to come out at the Yacht Club the back way, and then along Beach Drive, following the sea coast up and over King George Terrace, skirting Beacon Hill Park and along Dallas Road to Ogden Point.

In other words, the plain old fifty-cent tour.

But all along the route, the true-blue native Victorian talked about who owned this home, and who lived in that one, and how long they had lived there.

And the true-blue native Victorian talked about the old days, and the streetcar to Willows, and the broom bushes near the golf course, and a tug sinking by Trial Island.

All the while he talked, I rubber-necked from the passenger's seat, and drank in the seascapes, and admired the gardens even now showing signs of color and life.

I felt just like a tourist who, if he has any sense, wishes he could live here.

And at the risk of sounding like the Chamber of Commerce, I'm mighty glad I do.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A. E. Bun Kloske was elected president of the Victoria Airplane League at an annual meeting held recently. Miss Cari Walton was elected secretary-treasurer and Terry Messer vice-president.

Five city model airplane clubs were represented at the meeting, which discussed plans for spring and summer flying competitions. The first will be held at Nanaimo on April 26. A meet also will be held in Victoria in June.

It was decided to hold league meetings on the first Monday of each month at the Optimist Youth Centre, Fairfield Road.

One or two additional floats in the Inner Harbor for local and visiting yachtsmen are expected to be included in the city engineer's department work estimates for this year to keep up with the growing popularity of pleasure boating.

Increasing cloudiness to-night, and generally cloudy skies Thursday with showers, were predicted to-day by weatherman William Mackie.

Winds will be southeasterly at 20 miles per hour up to noon, and westerly at 25 miles Thursday afternoon. Temperatures will range between 40 and 47 degrees.

Total now stands at $210. Fifty dollars was offered anonymously; Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria Branch, SPCA, added $10; and Mrs. G. A. Lee, 994 Goldstream, $5.

The pet torturer is sought for mutilating at least four dogs and six cats. Maximum penalty for such cruelty is a fine of $500 or six months in jail, or both.

Last occurrence was Friday night, when cat's tail was pulled out. The animal had to be destroyed.

The school board, faced with a delayed payment of teachers' salary increases last year, is expected to increase its 1959 budget.

"At the moment, I don't see where there can be a reduction in the general rate," Mayor Scurrah said.

"It doesn't look as though services can be expanded in any way this year but I'm hoping we won't have to make any cuts."

TAX TAKE UP

Total tax collections will increase this year as a result of assessment increases ordered by the provincial government but the extra money will be eaten up by the heavier routine service load the city will have to bear.

The mayor also pointed out that city council will have no control over employees' salary increases, a $450,000 item if all demands are granted by an arbitration board.

On last year's assessment, that would require an outlay of more than five mills.

But it's indicated that employees will be awarded less than half of what they are seeking.

MOTHER SIGNED

The two mothers said they went to Mr. Finland who produced two forms, filled out the top four lines and had the women sign their names to the documents, himself signing as witness.

The forms were routine applications returnable to the department of vital statistics for marriage licence.

Patricia said she and Birke took the forms to the licence bureau and were told there was "something wrong."

Next day they returned the forms to Mr. Finland, she said, who later the same day gave them "something in an envelope and told us we could get married."

Richard S. Smith, Work Point, $25 for allowing another person to use his driver's licence.

Robert Noble, Jr., 1377 David, $20 for speeding over 30.

Estimates Study To Start Friday

Mayor Percy Scurrah today pledged an all-out battle to keep the city's mill rate from rising this year.

Consideration of 1959 estimates at the committee level begins Friday when finance committee sifts through requirements for general government purposes.

Other committees will follow with scrutiny of their estimates and city-council will go to work on the total budget in a few weeks.

"I'm going to do everything in my power to hold the general rate, over which we have control, at its present level," he said.

MORE FOR SCHOOLS

Last year the general purpose rate set by council was 30.47 mills. But the school board's budget added 17.03 mills to make the overall levy 47.5 mills.

Looke... Women! Nails Can Be Any Color Now!

By PENNY SAVER

By the look of the spectacular colors of the newest in nail polishes... it's my guess (and not a wild one) that we must have suppressed desires to paint ourselves in the most brilliant hues!

Actually, I'm exaggerating a bit, because the lacquers I'm referring to are subtle as autumn with their new pearly-type base.

Colors of these wonderful polishes include Jamaica green, orchid, orange gold, silver, blaze, blue and even gold! Attractive square-shaped bottles with elegant gold tops are priced at 59 cents each. Gay colors of this polish will add that touch of "something different" to your spring daytime or evening outfit!

"Why I thought you were sisters" ... a compliment that any woman would love, when the comparison is with teenage daughter!

It's said frequently to the woman who treats her skin with care. It's not so difficult when she's using this wondrous product especially designed for firming contours. There are three preparations in the $5 package.

First, a silky tightening lotion that molds into the skin, lifting and firming and almost "washing away the years." Then there is the salon oil to be applied over the lotion to help remove tired lines. And last, a perfection cream which is patted over the face and throat to soften and smooth away the fine lines around eyes, mouth and forehead.

Use these preparations faithfully ... and they'll take years off your age.

DISPLAY SHOWER

I would appreciate a comment from you about a display shower. How does one get the idea over to her guests that shower gifts should be sent or brought with the donor's name attached, but without any gift wrapping? The gifts are then on display at a come-and-go tea. I find that so many have no idea what they are supposed to do for such a shower.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

Instead of bewildering or confusing guests invited to this kind of shower, a hostess should be more explicit with her invitations rather than to assume. Your interpretation may be one thing to you, but it is something else to the majority. Since one naturally wraps a gift, a hostess for your kind of party should ask each guest, either verbally or on a written invitation, to attach her name card to an unwrapped gift because she plans to display the gifts at the party. I am little non-plussed at your phrase "come and go."

Gossip Over Back Fence Pays Off

TORONTO (CP) — All that gossiping over the garden fence, or the telephone tie-up for a neighborhood yakkety-yak, can be made to pay off, says Mrs. J. L. Savage of Toronto.

"Women are renowned for nagging," she said. "But it's a good thing. It's the way crusades are launched."

Mrs. Savage is an active member of several organizations—a vice-president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, a former president of the Young Women's Christian Association and a former president of the University Women's Club of Toronto.

Women in Canada are being urged to be more active in public affairs, to withstand the blandishments of top-pressure sales talk and to be discriminating in buying goods for the home," she says.

"The only way they can do these things is by discussing their ideas with other people, and then taking action through an organization.

"If women want something done—and they always do—they should get their thoughts in order over the back fence first, then take their views to an organization for action. It can be a church group, a service club or social organization—just a number of women ready to say what they think."

The CAC is probably the best organization to consult if topics of particular interest to women, such as food or clothing, are under fire. But other groups affiliated to the CAC can pass on recommendations, said Mrs. Savage.

Groups working with the Canadian Association of Consumers include the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, Business and Professional Women, and the Canadian Federation of University Women.

OPENS EASTER SEAL DRIVE FRIDAY

DUKE WILL BE THERE
WHEN WEATHER WARMS

LONDON (Reuters) — An 18-year-old girl nudist has invited the Duke of Bedford to spend a sunbathing weekend with her.

The invitation was issued when the duke—host to a nudist convention last year—went Monday to see the premiere of a movie called "Around the World With Nothing On."

After the show, one of the girls, Wendy Clifford, a practising nudist, asked: "Will Your Grace spend a sunbathing weekend with my family?"

"My family are nudists, we would like you to be our guest."

Replied the duke: "Don't you think we had better wait until the weather gets warmer?"

Said Wendy: "All right, that's a date then. So glad you can come."

Whipper Watson Due Here

Whipper Billy Watson, one of Canada's most popular athletes and top-flight heavyweight wrestler, will open Friday the Lower Island Lions Club Easter seal campaign in aid of crippled children.

He will arrive here the night before, and Friday at 9:30 a.m. will sell the first set of seals to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

At 10:30 he will visit the cerebral palsy clinic at Royal Jubilee Hospital, will speak to the Victoria Lions Club at the Empress Hotel at noon, and his own expense under subscription of the Canadian Council for Crippled Children and Adults.

The Toronto wrestler is travelling across Canada at his own expense under subscription of the Canadian Council for Crippled Children and Adults.

He will be accompanied in

B.C. by "Timmie," a crippled

Indian boy from Smithers who is undergoing treatment in Vancouver.

Object of the drive here is $20,000, to be used to help operate the three Bunny Buses which carry patients to the cerebral palsy clinic, and the clinic itself. All seals will be mailed Monday.

FIREMEN FIND
TOTS' BODIES
UPSTAIRS

EDMONTON (CP) — Firemen Tuesday found the bodies of two young children in the upstairs of a two-family home just north of the city limits.

They were identified as

Marilyn and Shirley Johnson,

the seven- and 17-month-old daughters of Kenneth Johnson.

A third child was carried to safety.

Mrs. Johnson was taken to hospital suffering "extreme shock."

HE GIVES AWAY
GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question, a copy of "Aladdin's Lamp" by Alphonse Giheb.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Michael Stack, aged 13, of St. Catharines, Ont., for his question:

What Is the Energy From Radioactivity?

Radioactive energy comes from the mighty little atom. It is the power which is normally locked in the nucleus, the very heart of the atom. The particles of an atom are very strongly bound together and it is no easy job to split them apart. This means that tremendous energy is used to hold them together. When a nucleus is broken apart, some of this energy is released.

Every atom is put together like a miniature solar system. The nucleus plays the role of the sun. Around it, like planets orbiting the sun, whirl the electrons. It is no hard job to strip electrons from an atom. We do it to make electric power. The atom which loses an electron tries to capture another. This does not change or upset the nucleus.

We usually find out how to use a force of nature before we fully understand it. For example, we were using electricity long before we had any idea what it was. The same is true of our dealings with atomic energy. We know how to release energy from the atomic nucleus in two ways, by fission, which is splitting, and by fusion, which is making smaller atoms into larger ones. But there is still a great deal about the energy within the nucleus of the atom that we do not know.

We know about several different particles within the nucleus. But still more are waiting to be discovered and we have still much more to learn about the atomic glue, the tremendous energy which binds the particles of the nucleus together.

Atoms Split in Small Pieces

The way we have learned and are still learning is by study of radioactive materials. A substance is radioactive when its atoms of their own accord break apart into smaller atoms. Some of these substances are man-made. Uranium is a radioactive substance found in nature. It seems that certain very large atoms tend to get topheavy. Then their nuclei break apart. Some of the particles and some of the energy which bound them are no longer needed. They are given off as radioactive energy.

Radioactive energy is given off as rays, which is why it is called radioactive. By studying these rays we have learned a great deal about the energy within the nucleus of the atoms.

Three types of energy rays pour forth from any radioactive material. They are called alpha rays, beta rays and gamma rays, named from the three letters of the Greek alphabet. Rays of alpha particles move out at speeds up to 20,000 miles a second. They are stopped by a sheet of paper or by a fraction of an inch of air. Rays of beta particles travel with almost the speed of light. The beta particles can travel through about a quarter inch of aluminum. The third and most energetic group of rays are of gamma particles. These energetic particles can penetrate six inches of lead or a whole foot of iron.

Mr. Siddoo made his money from lumber holdings in British Columbia and recently sold the bulk of his Vancouver Island timber and other holdings to B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for an estimated $3,000,000.

"I am getting old and haven't much more time," the 75-year-old man said. "I want to do something for humanity with my money."

He said "Canada is our home so we are doing this as a gift from the Canadian people."

He recently returned from India with one of his daughters, Dr. Jagdis Kaur Siddoo, 33, to complete the deal and arrange for purchase of hospital equipment. His other daughter, Dr. Sarjit Kaur Siddoo, 32, is in India with her mother, supervising construction of one of the two intended hospitals. Both daughters are McGill University graduates.

The family decided to build the hospitals after personal interviews with Prime Minister Nehru.

How long is the Great Wall of China?

This amazing man-made wall is somewhat more than 1500 miles long. Its construction was started some 300 years B.C. by the Chinese, who wanted to protect themselves and keep out the barbarian hordes to the north. From time to time, the Great Wall was repaired and extended. The whole 1500-mile length was not built at one time.

The wall wanders up hill and down dale. Its height varies between 15 and 20 feet. It looks like a raised roadway played.

The Daily Express, which says the "British system" is safer, cheaper and more flexible," claims that "technical considerations were swept aside" at Montreal and the American system adopted because the United States was "prepared to offer free equipment and service to those who will accept it."

Canada Monday also refused, but adding that neither U.S. or British systems were adequate.

The aviation correspondent of The Chronicle says the action is contemplated because British transport ministry officials believe the British system is the "only safe way of controlling 600-mile-an-hour jetliners in the crowded air over this country."

NEVER HAD CHANCE

The correspondent says the British Decca, radar system "never had a chance" at last week's ICAO meeting in Mon-nants are "almost certainly" those of the Sea Venture.

Dwarfing the Mayflower, Hail Moon, and Susan Constant that brought the first settlers to Massachusetts, New York and Virginia in the early 1600s, the 300-ton ship is credited with being the first full-rigged British vessel to cross the Atlantic.

The flagship of a fleet of nine vessels sent from England with supplies for starving colonists in Virginia, the Sea Venture was separated from the rest in a storm.

She reached Bermuda July 28, 1609. In sinking condition after battling the storm, she was deliberately run aground.

The Bermuda News Bureau reported Tuesday that the vessel's skeleton was discovered last Oct. 18 on the reefs less than a mile off shore. Naval experts, the bureau reports, have agreed that the rem-

U.K. May Go It Alone With Own Air Device

LONDON (Reuters) — The News Chronicle says Britain said baldly that they were not interested in discussing whether the Decca system was better than their own system.

He says American support for U.S. VOR system was for "political reasons" because more than $560,000,000 of U.S. taxpayers' money has been spent on it for military planes.

IF RED LIGHT BLINKS ON, YOU'VE HAD IT

OTTAWA (CP) — Note to Canada-United States border crossers: The electronics man will get you if you don't watch out.

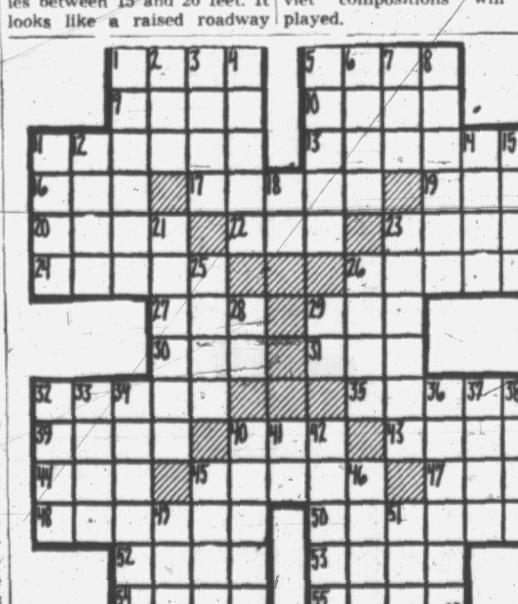

As Revenue Minister Norman explained it to the Commons estimates committee today, computing machines have been installed at some places to help officers keep track of people who might be sneaking in goods without paying duty. Without going into detail, he put it this way:

"The machine goes hang, a red light goes on and then, brother, you're in trouble."

'STRAIGHT MAN' ABBOTT SOBS AT NEWS

Funnyman Lou Costello Dies of Heart Attack

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - Fat, funny Lou Costello, who with partner Bud Abbott comprised one of the entertainment world's most successful teams, died Tuesday in hospital of his second heart attack in a week.

He was 53. Abbott was 10 years older.

Abbott, his longtime straight man and sidekick on screen and off, was at his home in nearby Encino. Friends sent word to him at once.

Babbott sobbed at the news.

Costello, who started in burlesque, clowned with Abbott in vaudeville, movies, the stage, radio, television and nightclubs.

The two split, amicably, in July of 1957. Since, Lou had worked harder than ever as a single in night clubs and in dramatic roles on TV. Bud has been taking it easy.

Besides his wife, Ann, Costello is survived by three daughters, Patricia, 22, Carol Lou, 20, and Christine, 11.

Costello's last movie was finished only in January. It was a science-fiction epic, Lou Costello and His 30-Foot Bride.

Costello drew heavily on his old burlesque routines - toned down, of course, for the movies.

THEY LOVED HIM

Audiences loved Costello. He was the fall guy, always needled by the straight man's barbs, sometimes bruised by slaps and falls.

The most famous of the comedian's routines was a sketch about a baseball team.

He wrote it more than 20 years ago and first tried it out on the stage of Minsky's Republic Theatre in New York.

The sketch Who's On First? has been used thousands of times. It helped make millionaires of Costello and Abbott. They performed it for as little as $20, and, after they became famous, for as much as $15,000.

By a strange coincidence

LOU COSTELLO
... who's on first?

Abbott was watching a television film of the Who's On First? routine in his home when he learned of Costello's death.

After striking out on his own two years ago, Costello told an interviewer he found life as a single much easier than in the old days with Abbott.

Costello was born in Paterson, N.J., and after working a few odd jobs, including those of newsboy, soda fountain clerk and salesman, got a job in burlesques.

TOP MONEY-MAKERS

Teaming with Abbott, his first movie venture was the picture Caribbean Holidays. They made many films together and were voted among the first 10 money-making stars in the Motion Picture Hall of Fame poll from 1941 through 1944, and from 1948 through 1951.

While at Universal-International, Abbott and Costello were among the movie industry's 10 leading box office attractions. Their low-budget pictures played a big part in keeping the studio in business during some lean years.

One of their movies, Buck Privates, cost only $90,000 to make and grossed nearly $10,000,000.

Whaling Fleet Sails By April 1

British Columbia's whaling fleet will sail this year, it was announced Tuesday in Vancouver following settlement of a wage dispute between B.C. Packers Limited and the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.).

Two government conciliators helped work out the agreement, which will give boat crews a monthly wage increase of $20 this year and $15 next year, in addition to some minor fringe benefits and a bonus adjustment.

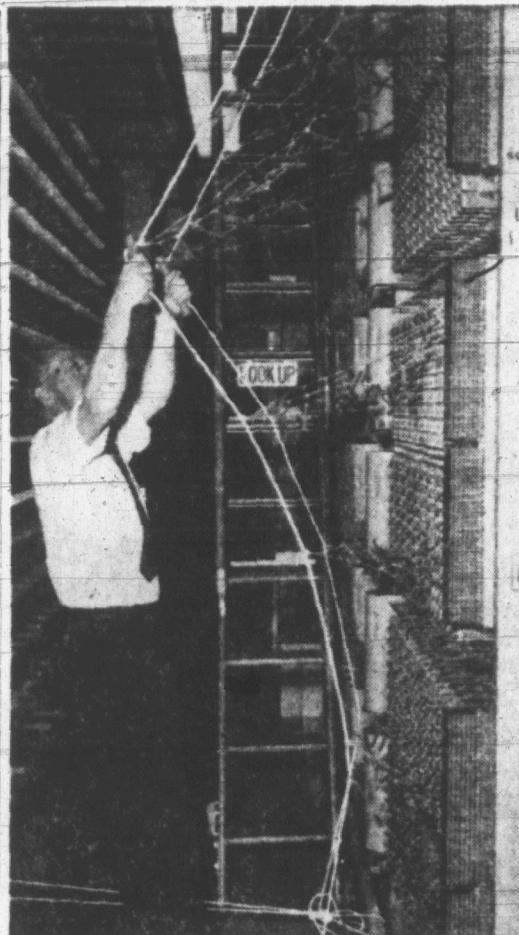

Whaling station personnel will get a 4 per cent wage increase next year and also receive a guaranteed monthly wage this year, with the amount still to be fixed.

SAIL APRIL 1

Earlier, company and union officials were at a deadlock in negotiations and it appeared the $500,000 annual payroll and 136 jobs would be lost.

The whaling fleet, which also includes Newfoundland whalers, now is expected to sail April 1.

Management spokesmen praised Don Tysoe of the federal conciliation service and Reg Clements of the provincial labor department for saving the industry.

A SINGLE, FIRM PULL by telephone technician Art Ensor on intricate network of rope and cord removed hundreds of small fibre insulating strips from sections of new B.C. Telephone automatic exchange at Sidney, to start dial service. Seconds before, at old exchange, similar operation pulled heat coils from old manual exchange to make hand cranking thing of the past.

Man Blinded in Traffic Mishap Agrees to $77,327 Settlement

Ronald Hall, 46, of Qualicum Beach, blinded in a traffic accident, December 16, 1957, has accepted $77,327 in settlement of his Supreme Court suit for damages.

Counsel asked Tuesday that the action be dismissed without costs following the out-of-court settlement in Vancouver.

Defendants in the case were Christopher Klammer, Langley, B.C., trucker, and driver Henry Harold Fast.

Fast's car was in collision with Klammer's sawdust truck, driven by Fast. His right eye was pierced by a sharp object and he lost the sight of it. He had lost the sight of his left eye some years earlier.

NANAIMO — Department of transport has approved the city's application to install power outlets with a coin-operated time switch at Fisherman's Wharf.

Applications for power outlets were made by fishermen last year. Much of the repair work to boats, they pointed out, is done these days with aid of power tools.

NANAIMO — City council will help eliminate the $130,000 debt of Vancouver Island (Nanaimo) Exhibition Association.

A grant of 80 per cent of the total debt will be made providing the exhibition board can obtain agreement from 95 per cent of the creditors to settle for 80 cents on the dollar.

The board went into debt in the development of city-leased Beban Park.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo city council may take a second look at its previously announced parking policy.

Three years ago the city took the stand the city should not be in the parking business.

But developments of recent years have indicated the matter will have to be reviewed. Ald. John Cook said Monday when commenting on an application from Nanaimo Realty Co. to purchase the northwesterly portion of Carroll Street extending to Terminal Avenue.

CHAMANUS — Assets of Chemainus and District Credit Union have grown from $5,150 in 1948 to $381,104 last year, members were told at the annual meeting.

In the same 10-year period, membership has grown from 81 to 484 and savings from $1,121 to $288,085. The reserve fund has grown to $12,827.

CAVALIERS — Branch 191, Canadian Legion, will take over and sponsor the local boxing club.

In the past, the club has been sponsored by the Community Centre.

The Legion will assist the boxers financially and help in the promotion and staging of various cards.

The new Legion Boxing Club will continue to use the facilities of the Community Centre for training. Ham Baillie Jr.

Main Points Of Proposed Law

New labor legislation introduced in the House Tuesday contains the following main points:

- All trade unions and employer organizations become legal entities, subject to suit for damages.
- All picketing, except by employees of a firm which is legally involved in a strike or lockout, becomes illegal.
- Unions or employer groups become liable for actions or members or agents, unless proven otherwise.
- New emphasis is placed on a four-day limit on ex parte injunctions.

Separate German Pact Red Threat

By The Associated Press

Hopeful Western words ran up against a reiteration of the Soviet stand on German issues in coincidental pronouncements by Big Three government chiefs today.

Premier Khrushchev declared in Leipzig that the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the West fails to come to terms on an all-German settlement.

He demanded again that U.S., British and French troops clear out of West Berlin, insisted the Russians will turn over control to the East Germans and said Western statesmen's efforts to block it "will come to nothing."

FORM OF DISENGAGE- MENT

In London, Prime Minister Macmillan said he will consult with his allies on a form of disengagement in central Europe. Disengagement ordinarily is taken in diplomatic circles to mean a pullback of Eastern and Western forces, to leave an area either neutralized or only lightly armed.

Macmillan, who returned home Tuesday from a 10-day mission to Moscow, told a press conference that any arrangement for withdrawal of Western military forces from Europe would have to be within a self-enforcing general agreement with the Soviet Union.

RUSSIA LESS RIGID?

He said Russia's latest note on Germany indicated a lessening of rigidity of the Soviet position and the U.S. government is taking as optimistic a view as possible.

The Soviet note, delivered to the Western powers Tuesday, agreed to their proposal for a foreign ministers' conference in Vienna or Geneva. The Russians suggested it start in April with just two topics—Berlin and a German peace treaty. The Russians made clear they would prefer a summit conference to consider all cold war problems.

Two Western statesmen intimately concerned—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French President de Gaulle—conferred at de Gaulle's villa west of Paris. It was their third meeting since de Gaulle returned to power, NASA calculated.

VANCOUVER—A woman who has worked tirelessly for over 40 years to improve conditions in international understanding said this morning that there is no such thing as preventive war.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, at a press conference here, expressed regret over a recent report that inferred the United States might bomb Russia in order to offset a world war.

"There is no such thing as preventive warfare," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "The next war,

Sharp Clash Indicated Over New B.C. Labor Bill

BERLIN LIFELINES

Russian pressure on the Western Allies to get out of Berlin continues to make that city one of the touchiest trouble spots in the cold war between East and West. Newsmap above shows details of the most important connecting links—air, rail, highway and water—between the isolated city and free West Germany. Shortest route is 110 miles. The Russians, speaking through East Germany, threaten to close all these arteries.

Father Charged In Girl's Death

George Matthew Callow of Campbell River today was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death Tuesday night of his daughter, Georgina, aged between 18 and 24 months.

He had been charged Tuesday in Campbell River police court with assault causing bodily harm, but was arrested on the more serious charge following the death of the little girl Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. in Campbell River General Hospital.

According to reports on Monday morning, Callow called Dr. John Depew of Campbell River to attend the little girl, who was unconscious. She was taken to the hospital by the doctor, who also notified police.

It is understood an assault took place between Sunday night and Monday morning at the Callow home.

Callow, who is separated from his wife, took care of three other daughters, aged 4½ years, 3½ years and four months.

The body of the little girl was brought to Victoria today by Sgt. Earl Sarsat of the Campbell River RCMP detachment for a post-mortem examination by Dr. Ross G. D. McNeely, Royal Jubilee Hospital pathologist.

Mrs. Roosevelt made it clear that while the Soviet government is "not entirely to be trusted," she believed that Russia is confident it can win through world communism without resorting to war.

This does not mean that the western world shows weakness that Khrushchev might not launch a war.

"You must remember, however, that Khrushchev knows that to win he must not only beat the United States, but all the countries of the free world. He too knows it means world annihilation."

Mrs. Roosevelt believes that any show of weakness on the part of the Western world at present would be detrimental.

"We do not want a compromise brought about by intimidation. We must be more mature."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, although we cannot see Thee with our eyes or touch Thee with our hands, we may sense Thy presence in ways more real than sight could disclose or touch conviction. Thy Spirit is within our hearts. So when we cry to Thee for sudden help, it is not from a distance that Thou must come to our succor; and when we yearn for understanding it is not in vain that we wait. Lord, we give thanks that we are not alone, for Thou art with us; and strength, and joy, and hope are with thee; in Christ alone. Amen.

JOHN DIEFENBAKER
... full participation

IN DEFENCE WORK WITH U.S.

John D. Asks Bigger Share —Not Crumbs'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says the federal government wants a fair share—not crumbs—of North American defence contracts.

But there is no assurance that the U.S., which controls the bulk of defence production work and which would have to pass on work to Canadian plants, will accept all Canadian demands.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Tuesday in the House of Commons that the government has made it clear to the U.S. "that sharing in production is mandatory, and that Canada will not be satisfied with crumbs."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada will have a full and equal participation in all decisions of common defence, but referring to Canadian requests for U.S. assurances on production share.

During the defence debate, the Liberals accused the government of turning over the main job of defending Canada to the U.S.

"We are apparently going to be content to ride on the backs of the Americans," said Paul Hellyer (L. Toronto Trinity), former associate defence minister. "We have decided for a moment at least to have no defence at all."

A joint statement issued by B.C. Federation of Labor president William Black and secretary Pat O'Neal charged the new bill removed any doubt that the government planned to "legislate the trade union movement out of existence."

"It would appear the government has gone down the line with management proposals," the statement said. "They have identified themselves as being one and the same."

"This legislation gives the employers the lever they require to continually harass, persecute and prosecute labor unions through the courts on the slightest pretext."

"It proves conclusively that management controls the government."

ANTI-LABOR

Later Mr. O'Neal added that the legislation would result in B.C. sharing the distinction with Newfoundland of being the two most anti-labor provinces of the kind."

He quoted Opposition Leader Pearson as saying last August, before the September announcement that the Arrow program was under review, that Canada must have new radar systems, ground control and ground-to-air guided missiles such as the Bomarc.

The government had acted in this direction and now was being criticized for doing so.

"It was the way it was done," interjected Mr. Pearson.

In other words, Mr. Diefenbaker retorted, Mr. Pearson was saying: "You did what I wanted but you did not do it in the way that I wanted it done."

He chided the Opposition for its "frenzied fear that co-op-

Made More Noise, Argue Claims

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the Progressive Conservative government has done no better than the Liberals in protecting Canadian sovereignty, though it has made more noise.

The U.S. refusal in 1956 to buy the Canadian CF-100 jet interceptor indicated refusal to accept Canada as a full partner. The attitude had continued to the present.

Replying to the CCF charge that present defence arrangements meant loss of sovereignty, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "There must be co-operation with the U.S. Without co-operation there is no survival for us, or the United States."

He chided the Opposition for its "frenzied fear that co-op-

Non-Confidence Motions Beaten

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke late in a two-day debate on defence which ended Tuesday night when the huge Progressive Conservative majority defeated the combined Liberal-CCF opposition on two non-confidence motions.

A Liberal motion charging that government delay in determining air defence policy and co-operation with Canadian allies is preventing effective use of Canadian production facilities and manpower was defeated 175 to 42.

A CCF addition to that, stating that the government's hesitancy contributed to the erosion of Canadian sovereignty," was turned down 176 to 42.

Earlier, External Affairs Minister Smith said Canada has informed the U.S. by diplomatic note that mandatory oil import restrictions by the U.S. would have a worse effect on Canada than the voluntary curbs now in effect.

He also said that he expects Canada to conclude negotiations with Japan next spring on an agreement covering the sale of Canadian uranium for peaceful uses.

Mac Invited To Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has been invited to visit Ottawa in March and might address a joint meeting of the Commons and Senate, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

Mr. Diefenbaker told Parliament Macmillan would go to Washington March 15 or 16 to discuss his recent mission to Moscow, with President Eisenhower.

In a democracy it is more difficult, and I do not think the United States is fully aware of the importance of this visit.

Unions Planning Strong Fight; Business Happy

Management and labor spokesmen in British Columbia today took almost opposite views on the proposed new Trades Union Act introduced in the legislature Tuesday afternoon by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

Labor in the main was bitterly opposed to curbs on picketing and the creation of unions as legal entities.

Business and management were generally in favor of the changes. (See details of bill, Page 3.)

Mayor to Go All-Out To Block Tax Boost

Estimates Study To Start Friday

Mayor Percy Scurrall today pledged an all-out battle to keep the city's mill rate from rising this year.

Consideration of 1969 estimates at the committee level begins Friday when finance committee sifts through requirements for general government purposes.

Other committees will follow with scrutiny of their estimates and city council will go to work on the total budget in a few weeks.

"I'm going to do everything in my power to hold the general rate, over which we have control, at its present level," he said.

Total now stands at $210.

Fifty dollars was offered anonymously to the Victoria Branch, SPCA, added $10; and Mrs. G. A. Lee, 994 Goldstream, $5.

The pet torturer is sought for "mutilating at least four dogs and six cats. Maximum penalty for such cruelty is a fine of $500 or six months in jail, or both."

Last night, when a cat's tail was pulled out. The animal had to be destroyed.

The school board, faced with a delayed payment of teachers' salary increases last year, is expected to increase its 1969 budget.

"At the moment, I don't see where there can be a reduction in the general rate," Mayor Scurrall said.

"It doesn't look as though services can be expanded in any way this year but I'm hoping we won't have to make any cuts."

TAX TAKE UP

Total tax collections will increase this year as a result of assessment increases ordered by the provincial government but the extra money will be eaten up by the heavier routine service load the city will have to bear.

The mayor also pointed out that city council will have no control over employees' salary increases, a $450,000 item if all demands are granted by an arbitration board.

On last year's assessment that would require an outlay of more than five mills.

But it's indicated that employees will be awarded less than half of what they are seeking.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Reginald Begin, 1601 Esquimalt, $25 each for driving without a licence and driving without plates.

Richard S. Smith, Work Point, $25 for allowing another person to use his driver's licence.

Robert Noble, Jr., 1377 David, $20 for speeding over 30.

A second major B.C. labor body today urged the legislative labor committee to request a federal-provincial-municipal conference on unemployment.

International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, represented by international representative H. L. Hansen, criticized the provincial government for reducing road maintenance crews by 400 men last year.

B.C. Federation of Labor delegates also called for a conference.

LESS OVERTIME

The pulp workers asked less overtime permits be granted by the labor department, noted the dangers of "moonlighting" and suggested federal immigration authorities curtail the influx of immigrants until the unemployment crisis is over.

The unions also suggested adoption of annual guaranteed wage scales in lumber and construction industries to retain efficient, trained personnel.

'WHITE CROSS' ON VIEW

Mental Health Centre Opens

BY JOHN MIKA

Victoria's first voluntary mental health centre goes into operation next week but it needs help.

The White Cross Centre established a few days ago in Suite 1, 738 Fort, will go into operation Monday with a four-night workshop on group processes starting at 8 p.m.

The centre, designed to provide information on mental health topics and a community educational program, was set up by the 300-member Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The three-year-old branch plans to develop it eventually into a social and recreational centre for discharged patients of mental hospitals to help them overcome the difficulties of readjusting to society.

The branch has appealed to TPA groups, service clubs and other community organizations to help furnish office equipment for the centre — ranging from a stenographer's desk and chair to coat rack and hangers.

DONATIONS

Donations to help defray the $35 monthly rental and utility bills also are sought.

The centre also would like organizations interested in films or speeches on mental health topics to contact its part-time co-ordinator Ray Woolam at EV 5-7811 Monday mornings.

Offers of assistance to the centre can be phoned to Mrs. Violet Hawkes at EV 4-7128.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me when streetcars first ran to Esquimalt to serve the navy, and if any horse-drawn streetcars were ever used in Victoria? H. B.

A. The Esquimalt streetcar line was started in early 1891 following formal opening of the system Feb. 22, 1890, by the National Electric Traction and Lighting Co. No horse-drawn streetcars were ever used in Victoria.

Q. Could you tell me the year leap year missed and went for eight years instead of the usual four? B. B.

A. The last year of a century is in most cases not a leap year. This is done to adjust calendar time. Last such omission was in the 1896-1904 period.

BEFORE MONTREAL CONGRESS

Botanists Coming From Europe, Asia

About 200 botanists from all parts of Europe and Asia, including some from Russia, will visit Victoria this summer, before attending the big International Botanical Congress in Montreal in August.

A total of 6,000 botanists are expected to attend the congress between August 12 and 29.

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial botanist, said the plant scientists will be taken on field trips on Vancouver Island and the interior of British Columbia.

One of the areas the scientists will visit will be the Thetis

Lake Plant Sanctuary, he said.

The flora on south Vancouver Island, especially at Thetis Lake where native plants grow in their natural environment, will be of special interest to the botanists, Dr. Szczawinski said.

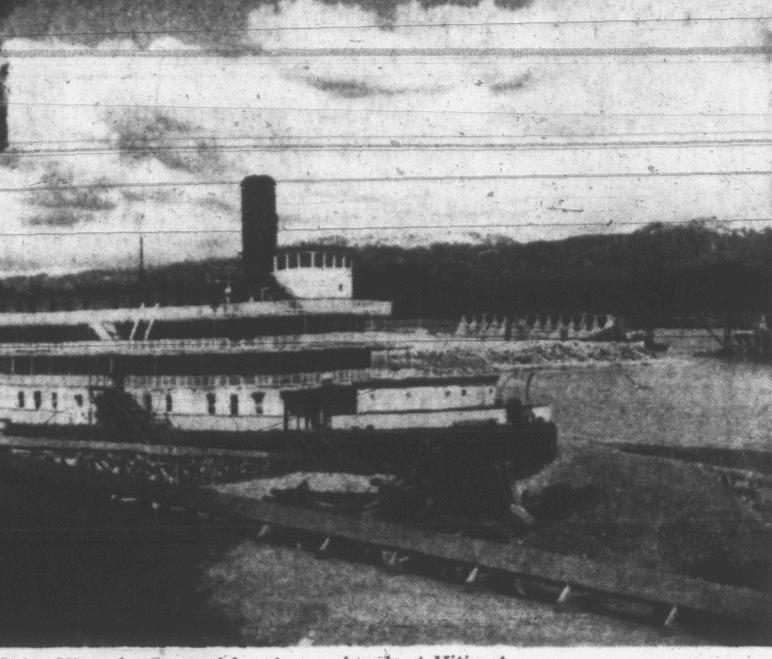

He expected the scientists to arrive in Victoria August 1.

Other provinces, he said, have also arranged to provide the botanists with field trips.

The field trips in British Columbia will be conducted by Dr. V. Krajina, of the B.C. University of British Columbia, and Dr. Szczawinski.

RESURRECTION FROM UNDIGNIFIED RETIREMENT is planned for this historic bell, manufactured in 1873, and used as Victoria's fire alarm during the days of a volunteer fire brigade. Later the bell, mounted atop City Hall, tolled the curfew hour. Bell and tower were removed in 1934 and stored in Garibaldi yard where workman Ed Keiser is shown examining it. City plans to erect it, and a discarded horse trough from the Fountain Circle, as a historical display and tourist attraction when a suitable location is determined. (Times Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

A true-blue native Victorian did me a great kindness the other day.

I should explain, a true-blue native Victorian is different from a plain native Victorian, such as me. I was born here, which makes me a native, but I went away for many years. The true-blue native Victorian has enough sense to stay here all his life, with the possible exception of a brief expedition to Duncan.)

But about this kindness performed by the true-blue native Victorian. He took me for a drive, and he showed me a few of the scenic highlights of this, the fairest of them all.

Now, I have been over the ground we covered many scores of times in the past few years. But, with the true-blue native Victorian doing the driving as well as the explaining, I began to see the city somewhat as a tourist might see it.

The route chosen for our drive was a very ordinary one, taken for granted by all residents; we went out Hillside until it became Lansdowne, and wended our way through the Uplands to come out at the Yacht Club the back way, and then along Beach Drive, following the sea coast up and over King George Terrace, skirting Beacon Hill Park and along Dallas Road to Ogden Point.

In other words, the plain old fifty-cent tour.

But all along the route, the true-blue native Victorian talked about who owned this home, and who lived in that one, and how long they had lived there.

And the true-blue native Victorian talked about the old days, and the streetcar to Willows, and the broom bushes near the golf course, and a tug sinking by Trial Island.

All the while he talked, I rubber-necked from the passenger's seat, and drank in the seascape, and admired the gardens even now showing signs of color and life.

I felt just like a tourist who, if he has any sense, wishes he could live here.

And at the risk of sounding like the Chamber of Commerce, I'm mighty glad I do.

War Means World Annihilation

BY ELIZABETH FORBES
Times Women's Editor

VANCOUVER — A woman who worked tirelessly for over 40 years to improve conditions in international understanding said this morning that there is no such thing as preventive war.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, at a press conference here, expressed regret over a recent report that inferred the United States might bomb Russia in order to offset a world war.

"There is no such thing as preventive warfare," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "The next war, no matter how started or for what purpose, will be one of complete annihilation."

Facing a battery of cameras and the questions of reporters with dignified ease, Mrs. Roosevelt made it clear that while the Soviet government is "not entirely to be trusted," she believed that Russia is confident it can win through to world communism "without resorting to war."

This does not mean that if the western world shows weakness that Khrushchev might not launch a war.

"You must remember, however, that Khrushchev knows that to win he must not only

"We must show a balance of strength to match that of the Soviets, and also to show the uncommitted countries that we do have that balance of strength."

If this is to be accomplished, Mrs. Roosevelt said, the United States as a whole must show more determination in making plans along every line economically and culturally.

SHARP CLASH CERTAIN OVER NEW LABOR BILL

Separate German Pact Red Threat

By The Associated Press

Hopeful Western words ran up against a reiteration of the Soviet stand on German issues in coincident pronouncements by Big Three government chiefs today.

Premier Khrushchev declared in Leipzig that the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the West fails to come to terms on an all-German settlement.

He demanded again that U.S. British and French troops clear out of West Berlin, insisted the Russians will turn over controls to the East Germans and said Western statesmen's efforts to block it will come to nothing.

In London, Prime Minister Macmillan said he will consult with his allies on a form of disengagement in central Europe. Disengagement ordinarily is taken in diplomatic circles to mean a pullback of Eastern and Western forces, to leave an area either neutral or only lightly armed.

Macmillan, who returned home Tuesday from a 10-day mission to Moscow, told the House of Commons that he and Khrushchev "had a useful and I think constructive discussion in private on this matter."

War Scare Talk Hit By Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower warned today against war scare talk stemming from East-West tensions, saying U.S. defences are powerful and satisfactory for the present.

The president said it was true that the United States was forced by Russian propaganda and vituperation to live in a half-world of peace and threat.

But he thought it was unwise to devote so much public discussion to the possibility of this country suffering some form of attack.

Eisenhower, speaking specifically of the Strategic Air Command, said he saw no present need for an airborne alert with bombers constantly aloft. But he thought the day might come when such an alert would be necessary.

The gold-plated space probe was 216,798 miles from the earth and speeding along at 4,639 miles an hour toward the vicinity of the moon and an orbit around the sun.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Pioneer IV, launched at 12:10 a.m. EST, Tuesday at Cape Canaveral, Fla., would reach the point of its nearest approach to the moon at 5:24 p.m. EST.

At that time it will be 239,000 miles from the earth. It will be 37,000 miles from the moon, plus or minus 2,000 miles, the NASA calculated.
